CALL FOR PAPERS AND PARTICIPATION

1st Conference on Sustainable Banking & Finance CSBF 2023

DATE: June 23, 2023

LOCATION: University of Naples “Parthenope”, Naples (Italy)

EARLY DRAFT PAPER SUBMISSION DEADLINE: 20th March 2023

SUBMISSION LINK: <https://www.disaq.uniparthenope.it/1st-conference-on-sustainable-banking-finance-csbf-2023/>

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVE

Over the last few years, the threats about climate changes have dramatically increased because of the sharp intensification of the frequency and impact of natural catastrophes across the globe. While the politicians in many countries have proclaimed a “climate emergency”, financial markets’ participants and financial regulators are gaining awareness about the role they can play in stopping global warming and the effects that climate change may have on the stability of the financial sector.

Against this backdrop, the goal of this conference is to contribute to the literature on environmental topics related to the functioning of financial systems and corporate governance. The aim is the collection of both qualitative and quantitative studies that analyse the interaction between global warming, financial institutions and their relationships with firms and regulators. In particular, we would like to encourage academics, from different disciplines, to provide theoretical contributions and empirical evidences that document the phenomenon under investigation but also provide new insights and pioneering results.

AREAS OF INTEREST

This conference will stimulate the discussion about the bidirectional nature of the relationship between climate change and finance. Specifically, the aim of this conference is to encouraging novel research about the following main, but non-exclusive, topics:

- Financial system’s characteristics and carbon emissions across the globe
- Estimating the impact of central banks investment on global warming
- The impact of climate change on the corporate governance practices

- The impact of climate change on the stability of the global banking system
 - Global warming and financial institutions
 - Fintech for climate change
 - Green bonds and sustainability-linked loans
 - Climate risks and asset management
 - Climate risk, financing decisions, firm performance and innovation

PAPER SUBMISSION

Extended Abstract submission deadline: 20th March 2023

Notification of authors of accepted papers: 7th April 2023

Conference registration: 3rd May 2023

Full paper submission deadline: 23rd May 2023

The conference organizers invite submissions on the topics of the conference. We welcome papers in English in any one of the core topics. Participants will present the paper in person.

We invite to submit the final (or nearly completed) paper in electronic form (PDF format) at the following link: <https://www.disaq.uniparthenope.it/1st-conference-on-sustainable-banking-finance-csbf-2023/>. The paper must be written in English. The cover page should include the affiliation, address, phone and email of each author.

PUBLICATION OPPORTUNITIES:

The conference organizers, in liaison with the editor-in-chief of the International Journal of Finance and Economics (IJFE) Professor Keith Pilbeam, will invite the authors of 5 high quality papers from the conference to feature in a special section of the journal under the topic “Climate and Finance changes: how the financial system can save itself by saving the world.”

The special section will be managed for review by the conference organisers.

A selected number of submitted papers will be chosen for in-person presentation at the conference to be held at the University of Naples “Parthenope” on June 22-23, 2023.

The Organising Committee will choose selected papers from those presented at the conference to be considered for publication with Journal of Economics and Business (JEB) and the Business Ethics, the Environment & Responsibility (BEER) (notification by July 31, 2023). These papers will then go through a blind review process.
